

POST

Call for Papers

The 31st Greater New York Conference on Behavioral Research  is on SUNDAY, 24 NOVEMBER 2019 at Fordham University, 113 West 60 St., New York City. Undergraduate and graduate students and faculty in behavioral sciences (psychology, social work, urban studies, international studies, and related fields) are invited to submit papers for possible presentation. This annual Conference also includes details on student participation in 8 professional organizations that jointly endorse it.

Website: www.spssi.org/ny

Conference schedule: Welcome & snacks (12:30–1 pm), Scientific panels/ symposia (1-4:30 pm), Awards ceremony (4:30 – 5 pm), Gala reception (5 –7 pm).

Presentation proposals (300 word abstracts, or full papers) are due by 6 pm Monday, October 28, 2019, at gnycon@gmail.com. Submissions should be in MSWord, and include these details: Author name(s), affiliation(s), address/phone of key presenter, status (undergrad/ grad student/ faculty/professional), name of faculty mentor (if any). Only full papers (not abstracts) are eligible for the 8 student research awards below.

Direct any inquiries to the Conference Chair, Andy Molina, at gnycon@gmail.com, or 212-636-6393.

Eight awards for the best full paper (not abstract) by a student:

- 1- Scarpetta Award, for best undergraduate research
- 2- Toth Award, for best graduate student research
- 3- Guzewicz Award, for best cross-cultural / international research
- 4- Witmer Award, for best forensic research
- 5- Parker Award, for best neuropsychology research
- 6- Wexler Award, for best I-O psychology research
- 7- Hanson Award, for best behavioral research on social justice
- 8- Brennan Award, for best behavioral research on women/gender

 Supporters (in formation): Fordham University, and specific units within these several professional groups that encourage student research. For any details: takoosh@aol.com

